

MOCK MODESTY OUR ENEMY MOST FEARED

All Prudery is a Cloak Behind Which Great Evils Grow and Flourish.

CLINICS FOR SUFFERERS

Federal and State Government Determined to Stamp Out Social Disease.

Reports being received by the bureau of venereal diseases of the United States public health service and Oklahoma state board of health have for the attention of the department a matter of the utmost importance, and one that should attract every one interested in the suppression of evils that undermine health and social relations—reports of cases of venereal diseases hitherto unknown, resultant from the prosecution of Oklahoma's new venereal disease law, making it compulsory upon physicians and persons affected to make reports of all such cases. Hundreds of cases are being reported from nearly every village, hamlet, town and city in Oklahoma. The number is amazing as well as appalling. Social life and civilization are being threatened and among the greatest enemies that confront the present generation.

From one county seat town of 12,000 population more than 200 cases of venereal diseases have been reported, embracing schoolgirls and students of tender years as well as those of mature age. Literally hundreds of cases have been reported of victims of venereal diseases whose ages run as low as 15, 16, 17 and 18 years of both sexes.

Cures Without Publicity

It is high time that the public awakens to the danger of social life and evils of this character and help in their suppression. The bureau, cooperating with the Oklahoma state board of health, has established free clinics at a number of cities and towns in the state for the treatment of these diseases, where persons afflicted may apply and receive treatment without cost if they are unable to pay. These clinics are conducted without any publicity to patients, and in strict privacy. The establishment of these clinics is for the purpose of helping humanity.

Our government has taken the initiative among the nations of the world in openly fighting the malignant foe—venereal disease. It is waging a twentieth century fight against an enemy that has sailed the coasts of humanity for years, protected by its camouflage of prudery and mock-modesty. The campaign for stamping out venereal diseases will be waged in every hamlet, village, town and city in Oklahoma under the provisions of the new venereal law recently enacted by the state legislature and the Oklahoma public board of health.

Lay Aside Mock-Modesty

Veneral diseases and the dishonorable wounds resulting from them have cost more than 200,000 men and boys of our national army during the months intervening between mobilization and the signing of the armistice. One hundred millions of dollars and over 2,300,000 soldier days were lost to our military establishment at time when all forces, financial as well as physical, were vitally needed to reinforce Pershing's men on the fighting line. There is no longer reason for camouflage or mock-modesty about a matter that is eating at the very vitals of the nation. Veneral diseases, resulting from prostitution, pride and private, is the source of the evil—social evils that have, hitherto, been winked at by the great American public. The majority of professional prostitutes are venereally infected. It is up to the public working in co-ordination with public health, to wage a ceaseless warfare against social life in every community of the state. The public must be educated relative to the great dangers of the social evil.

REWARD OF $100 FOR EACH DEAD HOLDUP

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 3.—Many business men of Gillespie, Ill., are waiting on every corner at every hour of the day and possibly night to take a "shot" at all suspicious looking characters. And the "shot" shot promises to be effective enough to lay the recreants out cold for the business men and merchants are offering $100 reward for the first robber or hold-up man killed in the city. Yet, they want him or her dead. No halfway measures. This was determined on following a conference of citizens after repeated hold-ups and burglaries had gone unpunished.

His Excursions

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling." "I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady. "Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

Hair and Whiskers Tells the Front Chair Barber About Character of His Customers

Prophets of the day, seers and fortune tellers have nothing on the Tulsa barber when it comes to "divining" one's characteristics. Perhaps they have hit the nail on the head in your particular case. To the conclusions of the local tonsorial artists apply to yourself! But you feel the blood climbing up the back of your neck when you read the above list of epigrams.

It cannot be denied but that a barber, in any shop, is in the best position possible to make a detailed study of character. His hair, beard and mustache are the only parts of the body that are constantly in contact with the customer's face. And third, the barber is the only person who sees the customer in a state of relaxation, when he is at ease, and when he is in a state of tension, when he is in a state of nervousness. A barber, therefore, is in a position to make a detailed study of character, and to tell the customer about his character, and to tell the customer about his character, and to tell the customer about his character.

Getting the Once-Over. Did you ever notice your prospective barber giving you the "once over" while you are taking off your collar and tie? He sizes you up with a critical eye, does he not? They all do it.

Each barber has his personal opinion as to what a customer should "wear" his hair. And quoting one artist there are very few moderns in Tulsa.

"What's that? Does a man's hair have anything to do with his character?" Well, rather, said a front chair man in answer to the reporter's question. "That is," he continued, "his hair, in the way he wears it, and the style he takes, does not take in it is something like a telephone directory—it tells you just how to get in touch with his innermost personality."

In general here is one conclusion. A man who has his hair cut only of necessity, when the razor strikes him will be found to be dirty in nine cases out of ten. A hair cut once a week is enough but once a week is not enough. Then you look fresh, clean and wholesome and feel that way. There is no doubt but that a regular weekly hair cut has a good psychological effect. But a hair cut once in a while, in a week or so, is just a waste of money.

The reporter asked if dark hair didn't grow faster than light.

"Yes, there is no doubt about that," answered the barber. "Maybe that is one reason a dark haired man is more clean as a general rule than a light haired man. A light haired man is more content to let hair and beard grow because it doesn't show so plainly. So you see, why my big bet is on the dark man. He is more dependable because he looks to the details of personal appearance."

"There you are," he finished. "Next!" And while the reporter was putting on his collar he couldn't help but wonder just how the character-reader had sized him up.

Then on the Mustache.

The reporter visited another shop, this time on Main street. He settled

YOURS FOR QUALITY AND SERVICE

SMITH-ANDRE BAKERY

518 SOUTH MAIN

WEINBERGER

EXCLUSIVE MODISTE

Certain delays cause us to make an apology for not being able to announce readiness at our location—12 West Fifth. These delays are beyond our control and in a short time will be adjusted.

Exclusive Costume Tailoring

Silk Underwear and Fancy Blouses

Will be featured at the Fifth street location—right now, however, should patrons be in need of hem-stitching and button making a call at the address below will find us.

For Costume Tailoring

Phone 8896 for appointment. We are in readiness to attend to your every need.

536 SOUTH XANTHUS

Phone 8896

Permanent Future Location 12 West Fifth

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am," acquiesced the Chinaman. "And what is your name, m'am?" "Vee."

Marked for Life.

CENTREVILLE, Ind., May 3.—The marshal of this town has a pretty good finger and the power can have some by calling upon the marshal. The finger was found in a pool of blood near a pile of gravel, into which an auto crashed. Neighbors heard the damaged machine was transferred to another and a crowd like to question the owner of the finger.

His Excursions.

"Has Lab Jackett ever been anywhere in particular?" asked a neighbor. "Pears like I don't recollect of his doing much traveling."

"I don't reckon he's been about much lately," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Kansas City, Ark., "but he used to travel right smart ten or a dozen years ago, when his first wife was alive. Every little while she'd grab a club and run him off the place."

Fifty-Fifty.

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of her new Chinese cook. "My name is Wang Hang Ko," was the reply. "Oh, well, as I shall not be able to remember that I shall call you John," remarked the lady.

"Very good, m'am